MATTING

Declaration of commitment to science-based climate targets

Just as we set high standards for our products, we also hold ourselves to high environmental and social standards throughout the entire process – from material selection to manufacturing. Working closely with our suppliers, we strive to lead our industry and give our customers confidence in the quality and sustainability of every product. We strive to meet today's needs without compromising the opportunities of future generations. Guided by environmental management systems and life cycle assessments, we focus our efforts where our environmental and social impact is most critical.

Our commitment

- Matting AB commits to developing, submitting and implementing greenhouse gas emissions reduction targets in line with climate science and the applicable Science Based Targets initiative (SBTi) criteria for small and medium-sized enterprises.
- We will establish a complete and transparent greenhouse gas inventory for the relevant scopes, define measurable reduction targets, and submit those targets through the SBTi validation route available to Matting AB.
- Following validation, we will integrate the targets into business planning and operational decision-making, monitor progress, and communicate progress transparently using consistent and verifiable methods.

Commitment principles

- Science aligned: Targets will be prepared in accordance with the SBTi criteria and guidance applicable when the targets are submitted.
- Comprehensive inventory: The work will cover the relevant direct and indirect greenhouse gas emissions and document organizational and operational boundaries.
- Action oriented: Reduction measures will be prioritized before residual-emissions claims or compensatory measures.
- Accountable governance: Responsibilities, decision points, data ownership and review routines will be defined within Matting AB.
- Transparent progress: Progress, assumptions, methodological changes and material limitations will be documented and communicated clearly.

Clarification

This is Matting AB's corporate declaration of intent and reflects our ongoing work to develop and submit science-based targets for validation by the SBTi. It does not mean that Matting AB currently has validated science-based targets.
